

Tom Tyler
(American; b. 1938)

Tom Tyler has been actively painting for over forty years. He primarily works in gouache, acrylic and oil on canvas. His works are featured in several galleries throughout the United States where he has held one-man shows. Recognized for his unique style and bold use of color, he most recently was asked to teach painting to others in his community.

Tyler's acrylic paintings show intense expression, usually depicting the human form involved in music, dance or performance. Intense use of color and thick layering of paint adds to the expressive nature of his works. Tyler credits the German Expressionist painters of the early 20th century for influencing his work. Tom Tyler lives with his family in Minneapolis, MN.